“Landing page” has become a buzzword across the business and marketing world due to its usefulness. A landing page typically has the purpose of lead generation, meaning capturing the attention of potential new customers who come to the page and then take a specific action as directed by the CTA (call to action). The CTA is likely the single most important element of a landing page because it directs the customer to do something in particular once they’ve come to this page.
